

ALASKA ENERGY EFFICIENCY LEADERSHIP AWARD

The Alaska Energy Efficiency Leadership Awards are an initiative of the Alaska Energy Efficiency Partnership (AEEP) that is intended to recognize individuals and organizations successfully making strides toward the AEEP's mission of Alaska someday becoming the most energy efficient state in the nation. Two awards are given annually, one each for an individual and an organization. The awards must be for different projects. Anyone in Alaska can submit nominations. The AEEP Award Committee will review and score nominations, selecting the top three in both categories for review and selection by the full AEEP.

The Individual Leadership Award will be given to an individual that has gone above and beyond expectations in their personal or professional capacity and made a significant contribution to advance energy efficiency in a community, a region, or statewide. The awardee leads by example and has championed work that produced outstanding economic, educational and/or environmental improvement for Alaskans.

The Organization Leadership Award will be given to an organization that has demonstrated their commitment to advancing energy efficiency in a community, a region, or statewide. The awardee has led by example and has dedicated resources that has led to economic, educational and/or environmental improvements for some group of Alaskans.
